Berne, Auguſt 22. N. S. Our Letters which arriv'd this Morning from the Duke of Savoy's Camp, bring us the following Account. On the 7th, Monſieur Rhebinder, General of the Artillery, receiv'd Orders to March with a Body under his Command from Vachette to Sezanne; at the ſame time his Royal Highneſs commanded that all the Works on the Col des Echelles ſhould be blown up, and the Ways on that ſide made impracticable. On the 8th the Army broke up from Bardonache, and encamp'd at Oulx. Monſieur de St. Remis, a Lieutenant-General, continued with 10 Battalions upon the Col de la Roue, and at Bardonache, waiting for Orders to attack the Double Redoubt which the Enemy had made on the Col de Feneſtrelle. On the 9th Monſieur de St. Remis ſent intelligence, that the Enemy at his Approach had abandon'd their two Redoubts, having burnt the one and blown up the other. Orders were ſent to Lieutenant-General St. Remis to march from the Col de la Roue and Bardonache, and join our Camp at Oulx; from whence were detach'd, at the ſame time, five other Battalions towards Exilles, under the Command of Lieutenant-General de Regal, in order to cover the Siege of that Place, againſt the Avenues from the higher Grounds. That General ſent Advice, he had that Day drawn the firſt Parallel Line, and that the Cannon of Suza being arriv'd the Day before, he was then battering the Place. We receiv'd Advice from the Enemy, that the Marſhal de Villars arriv'd at Briançon on the Evening of the 8th Inſtant. Major-General Schuylembourg was likewiſe detach'd towards Exilles, to cover the Seige on the ſide of Mount Cenis. The Marquis d' Andouze, Son of the Marquis de Parelle, was ſent out with 1000 Foot, in order to oblige the Vaudois of the Valley of St. Martin, who had thrown themſelves under the Protection of France, to return to their Obedience. On the 10th, General Rhebinder march'd with his Detachment to Rouilliers and Chanclas, to cover the Valley of Pragelas, and cut off the Enemy from Feneſtrelle. Monſieur Pannewif, Major-General of the Pruſſians, had Orders, with ſix Battalions, to poſſeſs himſelf of the Poſts near Sezanne. On the 11th his Royal Highneſs, attended by ſome General Officers, went to viſit the Poſts at Sezanne, which had been taken under the Command of General Rhebinder. Soon after, the Enemy began to charge our Advanc'd Guards with ſo great numbers, that we were obliged to retire, which we did in very good Order, making frequent Stands, facing and firing upon the Enemy; but ſeeing the Enemy, who charg'd our advanc'd Guard, join'd by great Reinforcements, and marching towards us in two Columns; it was thought fit to quit our Poſts on that ſide of the Doire, and retire over the Bridge. The ſix Battalions under Major-General Pannewif, retreated alſo towards the Foot of the Mountain; which being obſerv'd by the Enemy, they form'd their Infantry as they came up into Order of Battel, and towards the Evening made a Body of 37 Battalions. His Royal Highneſs obſerving this great ſuperiority of the Enemy in that Poſt, and apprehending more of their Troops might arrive to Charge our Battalions, which were diſpers'd in different Stations, or that they might place themſelves between Oulx and Sezanne, gave Orders to Major-General Pannewif to quit the Poſt of Sezanne, and March in the Night with his ſix Battallions to the Camp of Oulx, which was done accordingly. General Rhebinder had, at the ſame time, Orders to direct his March again towards the Valley of Pragelas. On the 12th his Royal Highneſs march'd with his Army from Oulx. At his Approach near Exilles, there was ſo great a Breach made, that the Commanding Officer beat a Parley in the Evening, and ſurrender'd himſelf and Garriſon Priſoners of War. On the 13th in the Morning the Garriſon march'd out, and his Royal Highneſs receiv'd Advice, that the Fort of la Perouſe, where there had been a Garriſon of the Enemy, was poſſeſs'd by his Royal Highneſs's Troops; and that the Valley of St. Martin had ſubmitted to his Obedience. The Army march'd this Day to Chamont. On the 14th our Army march'd to Cheanne, and at the departure of the Courier with theſe Advices, they were continuing their March to Feneſtrelles, where General Rhebinder was before arriv'd with his Detachment, and had poſſeſſed himſelf of ſeveral advantageous Poſts. His Royal Highneſs left the Baron de Regal at Exilles, to command there with 10 Battalions, and repair the Breaches. It is computed, the Marquis d' Andourn, who took the Forts of la Perouſe, and of the Valley of St. Martin, had made in thoſe Places 900 Priſoners of War.

From the Camp at Amougies, Aug. 27. N. S. On Wedneſday the 22d, between 7 and 8 in the Evening, the Trenches were opened before Liſle on the Right and Left of the Lower Deule, the former by Mr. des Roques, and the other by Mr. Dumey, chief Engineers. Four thouſand Workmen were commanded for this Service, cover'd by ten Battalions of the Imperial, Palatin and Heſſian Troops, commanded by Lieutenant-General Wilke and Major-General Volkerſhoven; ten Battalions more and ſix hundred Horſe were ready to ſuſtain them, but the the Trenches were carry'd on with ſo good Succeſs, that our Men had above two hours time to cover themſelves before the Enemy perceived them; they then made a great Fire from the Town, but with ſo little effect that we loſt only three Men. The 23d the Trenches were relieved by Lieutenant-General Pettendorff, and Majors-General Sacken and Soble, with ten Imperial Battalions and a thouſand Workmen at each Attack; the Parallel was conſiderably extended both on the Right and Left, and a large Redoubt made againſt the Porte de Magdelaine, a new Parallel was likewiſe advanc'd on the Right, with a Communication of 360 Paces, and in the Center a Battery was begun for fifty Pieces of Cannon, againſt the Baſtion on the Right of the Porte de Magdelaine. This Night Lieutenant-General Pettendorff miſſing his Way between the two Attacks, was taken Priſoner and carried into the Town. Our Loſs hitherto does not amount to fifteen Men. The 24th Lieutenant-General Sparr reliev'd the Trenches, with Major-General Collyer, Brigadiers Waſſenaer and Keppel, and five Battalions at each Attack. About 9 at Night a Diſpoſition was made to attack a Houſe the Enemy were poſſeſs'd of on our Right, but finding it was encompaſs'd with a broad and deep Ditch, it was thought more expedient to cut it off with the Parallel; which was advanc'd ſo near by Midnight, that the Captain who commanded and fourſcore of the Enemy retir'd into the Town, leaving only a Serjeant and twenty Men, who retir'd likewiſe at Break of Day. At 10 at Night our Men attack'd a Chappel on the Left, where the Enemy had taken Poſt, and carry'd it in leſs than an Hour; the two Captains who were in it were kill'd, with a Lieutenant and thirty Men; the reſt, being three ſubaltern Officers and ninty ſix Granadiers, were made Priſoners. This Night a new Communication of about 380 Paces was advanced on the Right, and a ſmall Battery of 4 ſix Pounders rais'd, to beat the Enemy out of a Redoubt in the Inundation on that ſide. On the Left we advanc'd a new Communication of 600 Paces, which took in the Chappel our Men attack'd. The kill'd and wounded of theſe 24 Hours amount to about 80, among the former was a Lieutenant of the Artillery, and of the latter a Captain of Foot. The 25th the Trenches were reliev'd by the Prince of Holſtein-beck, Lieutenant General, Major-General Zoutlandt, Sir Richard Temple and Mr. Boiſet Brigadiers, with 5 Battalions and 1000 Workmen at each Attack, and 800 Workmen for the Batteries. As our Workmen were advancing a Parallel on the Right Way near the Enemy's Works, in order to join it with the Deule, they ſet Fire to a Windmill in which they had put a great quantity of combuſtible matter, by the Light of which they diſcover'd our Men and oblig'd us to defer working for two or three Hours. One of our Engineers and a Lieutenant were wounded, with between 30 and 40 Men. The 26th Lieutenant-General Sparr mounted the Trenches, with Major-General Collyer, Brigadiers Waſſenaer and Du Troſſet, with five Battalions for each Attack. About 7 in the Evening the Enemy made a Sally by the Porte de Magdelaine upon our Workmen at the Chappel de Magdelaine, whom they put at firſt into ſome Diſorder; but the Troops appointed to ſuſtain them coming to their Relief, and ſeveral Battalions filing out of the Trenches to receive them, the Enemy endeavour'd to make an orderly Retreat; but the Fire of our Battalions put them into great Confuſion, and kill'd ſeveral of their Men. Of our Troops that ſuſtain'd them, Captain Maure of the Dutch Guards was wounded, and a Lieutenant of the Artillery kill'd on this Occaſion, and 10 private Men kill'd and wounded. At break of Day the Beſieg'd ſent out a Trumpet to enquire for a Captain that was miſſing, who is ſuppos'd to be thrown in among the Faſcines. This Night the Parallel on the Right was extended on the Left to the Deule, and on the Right within 150 Paces of the Covered Way of the Horn-work, near the Porte St. André: On the Left the Parallel was extended within 200 Paces of the Horn-work of the Porte de Magdelaine, and a Branch of 200 Paces advanced from the Center. The kill'd and wounded during the laſt 24 Hours amount to leſs than 25. The 27th early in the Morning 44 Pieces of Cannon began to fire from the grand Battery in the Center, together with two other Batteries, one of 13 and the other of 11 Pieces, to batter in breach the Faces of the two Baſtions between the Horn-works of Porte de Magdelaine and Porte St. André; at the ſame time a Battery of 12 Mortars and 8 Hawitzers began to play from the Chappel de Magdelaine. The Enemy give out they are reſolved to attempt the Relief of the Place, and on Saturday the 25th the Duke of Berwick march'd with his Army from Mortagne to Boſſu between Condé and Mons, where they halted the 26th and 27th, and are march'd this Morning by Mons towards Soignies. His Grace the Duke of Marlborough had an Account Yeſterday, that the Duke of Vendome, having left Mr. De la Motte with a Corps for the Security of Ghent and Bruges, paſs'd the Schelde near Ghent at 5 in the Morning, and march'd in 3 Columns towards the Dender, and encamp'd at Pottelberg; and his Grace has juſt now Advice that they are march'd this Day to Ninove, in order to paſs that River to Morrow; whereupon Orders are given for our Army to be ready to march upon the firing of 3 pieces of Cannon: Our heavy Baggage is ſent to the Artillery, and every thing is in a readineſs for it. This Morning one of our Parties, which was ſent to get Intelligence of the Enemy, met 100 of their Horſe near Lenze, whom they attack'd and defeated; our Men follow'd them through that Town, and about a League further kill'd ſeveral of them in the Purſuit, and took 36 Priſoners with their Horſes. This Afternoon a great Convoy of Proviſion is come to the Camp from Aeth.

From the Camp at Helchin, Auguſt 30. N. S. His Grace the Duke of Marlborough, having advice Yeſterday, that the Armies commanded by the Dukes of Burgundy and Berwick, were ready to join on either Side the Dender, the former lying at Ninove, and the other near Soignies, His Grace ſent a Reinforcement of 600 Men to Aeth: And there being a Convoy of about 700 Waggons laden with Proviſion and Ammunition ready to ſet out from thence for the Army and the Siege, Lieutenant-General Roſs was order'd in the Evening with 2500 Horſe to cover their March to the Camp, where they arriv'd this Morning; and his Grace having certain Advice, that the Enemies Armies would join on this Side the Dender, whereby they declare their Reſolution of not acting in Brabant, our Army thereupon decamp'd from Amougies, and having repaſs'd the Schelde at Pottes and Eſcanaffe, came to this Camp, with the Right near Pont d'Eſpiere, and the Left at Avelgheme. His Grace has juſt now an Account, that the Duke of Berwick paſt the Dender this Morning at Ninove, and having join'd the Duke of Vendome, all their Troops march'd together to Leſſines, in the Way to Tournay; and Orders are given for our Army to be ready to march to morrow Morning towards the Marque, which River we ſhall paſs, in order to join the Troops that make the Siege, in caſe the Enemy attempt the raiſing of it.

From the Camp at Helchin, Auguſt 30. N. S. Auguſt the 27th the Trenches were reliev'd by Lieutenant-Genetal Wilke, Majors-General Veckenback and Volkerſhoven, with 10 Imperial Battalions for the two Attacks. A ſecond Parallel was carry'd on from the Center of the Attack, within 80 Paces of the cover'd Way, and a Sap began on the Right, with about 120 Gabions. We had 28 private Men kill'd and wounded upon this Day's Duty. The 28th we attack'd a Mill on the right, which the Enemy had entrench'd, and carry'd it with the Loſs of a Major and Captain kill'd, and about 50 private Men kill'd and wounded: But as we began the Attack late in the Night, the Light of the Moon, and that of the Morning ſoon following, hinder'd our Men from making a Lodgment. The 29th, the Trenches were relieved by the Prince of Holſtein-beck, Lieutenant-General, Major-General Zoutland, and Brigadiers Boiſet and Keppel, with 5 Battalions, and 800 Workmen at each Attack, and 400 for the Batteries. Our Works approaching the Mill we attack'd the Night before, the Enemy ſet Fire to it, and retired. A new Parallel was begun from the Deule, and carry'd on within 80 Paces of the cover'd Way of the Horn-work on the right. We likewiſe began two new Batteries in the Center of the Attack, one for 10 and the other for 9 Pieces of Cannon, to ruin the Defences, the Breaches appearing very large and low.

Bruſſels, Sept. 1. N. S. General Fagell is arrived here from Antwerp, and to-morrow will proceed towards the grand Army with a Body of near 8000 Men, taken out of Antwerp and this Place. All our Letters from before Liſle, make mention of a Letter ſent to the Prince of Savoy, who found himſelf Indiſpoſed at the opening of it, upon which thoſe who were near his Highneſs ſuſpecting it might be poiſon'd, made an Experiment of it upon a Dog, that died upon ſmelling to it. There are Letters from France which ſay the Duke of Savoy has taken Feneſtrelles; and that the Duke of Orleans had made ſo great Detachments to reinforce the Marſhal de Villars, that he was at preſent unable to Act offenſively in Spain.

Oſtend, Sept. 3. N. S. His Grace the Duke of Marlborough being join'd by the Prince of Savoy with the Cavalry that was before Liſle, march'd on the 31ſt of the laſt Month to Templeuve, and on Saturday his Grace took the Poſt at Pont a Treſſin on the Marque, to prevent the French Army from relieving Liſle, by paſſing that River by the way of Orcies. The French have paſſed the Schelde with their whole Army at Tournay, and are now within ſight of our Army and of Liſle. A Courier is juſt now arrived from the Duke of Marlborough's Camp, with advice, that our Army was yeſterday in ſight of the Enemy, with the Right near Liſle, the Left at Pont a Treſſin, and Menin in the Rear. He adds, that the Attack will be made on the Counterſcarp of Liſle to morrow, and that it was thought the Armies might Engage about the ſame time.
